

Simple Present Tense:

- Providing feedback:

Structure:

Subject + verb in the base form + adverb/ adjective
+ feedback statement

Use present tense verbs with subjects.

Add an adverb or adjective to describe the action.

Follow it with a feedback statement.

Examples:

- You always do a fantastic job on your projects.
- She usually contributes with great ideas during group work.
- We sometimes need more details in our reports.

Adding words like "always," "often," or "sometimes" (frequency adverbs) helps to describe how often something happens. Then, you say what you think about it.
